A Million Steps for Mental Health

February 15, 2022

Everyone knows that spending time outdoors is great for your mental health. One Meewasin Trail lover wants to raise awareness about the importance of getting out and getting active on her favourite trails and support Meewasin and CMHA Saskatoon in the process.

Longtime Saskatoon resident and mental health professional, Frances Sreedhar, has spent countless hours enjoying the mental and physical benefits of walking in the Meewasin Valley and along the South Saskatchewan River.

“The importance of Meewasin and mental health has truly been illuminated during COVID-19, and most of us can agree we are using the riverbank and the trails more than ever. I am one of many, using the trails to cope.” says Frances. Frances knows personally and professionally the benefits to spending time outdoors and is finding trail walks essential in maintaining her own mental health during this pandemic.

Now she wants to share her experience and these benefits with others. Her goal is to raise awareness as well as financial support for both the Meewasin Valley Authority and the Canadian Mental Health Association Saskatoon.

Her goal is to hit 1 Million steps on the Meewasin Trail by March 31, 2022 – just over one year from when she started this adventure!

She wants to raise 1¢ per step for organizations that support the mental health of the Saskatoon community. This equals $10,000 to support both of these important organizations in a major way!

Since March 2020, Frances has walked at least 3,000 steps every day on the Meewasin Trail. Shortly after she started keeping track, she realized those steps sure add up! She is determined to spread her message by inviting the public to join her in improving their own mental well-being while supporting these two critical organizations. Frances encourages others to get out on the Meewasin Trail, to challenge themselves and others to set and track an activity goal, and to share, request or gather donations and direct them to her initiative using the #MillionStepsForMentalHealth or donate to the organizations directly during the months of February and March.

If you would like to get involved, please visit the Meewasin Website and/or the CMHA Saskatoon website. Please use the hashtag #MillionStepsForMentalHealth in the message box to support Frances on this amazing initiative! Find more ways to get involved on the initiative's page.

Faith Bodnar, Executive Director of CMHA Saskatoon, expresses her support of the initiative, "Now more than ever we need to take all the steps we can to maintain our physical and mental health. Lucky for us we have Meewasin to help guide us in this journey. This natural jewel is a place we can reenergize and recharge and support two important organizations."

Andrea Lafond, CEO of Meewasin, had some words of gratitude to share with the community, "From the entire Meewasin Team, we want to thank Frances for including both CMHA and Meewasin in her leadership, to share through action, that community and outdoor physical activity is crucial to positive mental health outcomes. We are humbled that she has chosen to fundraise for both organizations - Go Frances!"
