Meewasin’s Pollinator Walks: A Fascinating Journey into the World of Pollinators

July 19, 2023

This engaging initiative aims to educate and raise awareness about the vital role of pollinators in our ecosystems while highlighting the importance for conservation.

Meewasin Pollinator Walks offer an immersive experience, inviting participants to embark on a captivating journey into the world of pollinators. Led by knowledgeable guides, these informative walks provide a unique opportunity to explore the breathtaking beauty of Beaver Creek Conservation Area, while learning about the fascinating life cycles, behaviors, and challenges faced by pollinators.

Join Kelton Braun, one of Meewasin’s incredible environmental educators for a Pollinator Walk at Beaver Creek Conservation Area. Along the way, you’ll learn about native plants and the pollinators that love them, and have the chance to plant your own wildflowers on site.

After the hike, you'll enjoy a refreshing cold drink made especially for you with help from pollinators and our friends at Primal Restaurant. And the best part? The proceeds from your ticket support Meewasin's education and conservation efforts!

"Meewasin Pollinator Walks are designed for folks to foster a deeper understanding and appreciation for the essential role that pollinators play in maintaining biodiversity," said Magel Sutherland, Manager of Education & Experiences. "Through this initiative, we hope to inspire individuals of all ages to become advocates for pollinator conservation and create habitats that support their flourishing populations."

Meewasin's Pollinator Walks are suitable for nature enthusiasts, families, school groups, and anyone interested in learning more about the wonders of pollination.

The walks will take place on July 16 & 29; Aug 6, 19 & 27
